En Passant

History of En Passant

En passant (French for in passing) is a special chess rule developed in the 15th century, but only accepted as a rule in the 19th century.

1. Which piece can play en passant?

- (a) Knight
- (b) Rook
- (c) Bishop
- (d) Pawn
- (e) Queen
- (f) All of the above

2. In the position above, when can White play en passant?

- (a) In as many moves as White wants (as long as the black pawn does not move away).
- (b) Only on this move!
- (c) White cannot play en passant.
- (d) It is valid for the next 2 moves.

3. In the following positions, can en passant be played? All positions are White to move. Circle yes or no. If yes, draw the move.
